Central Indiana Pork Conference

This is an era of change for the Pork Producer. New challenges and opportunities continue to present themselves. We have developed this conference to provide producers with information and tools to assist you in facing these issues.

What options exist to modify facilities to improve biosecurity, particularly against PRRS? What were the results of the recent EPA Air Quality Study and how might these impact producers? What is the current regulatory climate and how will it impact producers?

We invite Pork Producers and anyone involved in the Swine Industry to join us in Rossville as we focus on these and other issues.
